This faculty development program on financial planning for faculties aims to empower educators with essential knowledge and skills to navigate their financial landscape effectively. The program will cover a spectrum of topics, including income assessment, expense analysis, tax planning, and retirement strategies. Special attention will be given to understanding unique financial challenges faced by faculties, such as pension schemes, government initiatives, and mutual funds. By fostering a comprehensive understanding of financial tools and resources, this program seeks to equip faculty members with the tools necessary for prudent financial decision-making, enhancing their overall financial well-being.
