A Hands-on Training in LaTeX for Researchers is a Faculty Development Programme (FDP) designed to equip academicians and research scholars with practical knowledge of LaTeX, the standard typesetting system for scientific and technical documents. This training will introduce participants to essential LaTeX commands, document formatting, mathematical equations, tables, figures, referencing, and bibliography management. With a focus on hands-on sessions, the FDP ensures that researchers gain confidence in creating professional-quality documents for journals, theses, and conference proceedings. The programme aims to bridge the gap between traditional writing tools and efficient research documentation practices.
